Case study on python flask

Using the iris dataset, create a web application to take feature inputs from the user in a web page and print to which species it is classified.

Please note the following:
You must do a screen recording of all your codes which needs to be submitted
Please follow 'video submission guidelines' for submitting the video
Also submit the complete files as .zip in Paatshala
Do not include the video inside the .zip file
Please keep your name as the file name